CONGO

I. Political jockeying in Leopoldville continues, with the position of Mobutu's "government" rather tenuous.

A. In part due to pressure from the UN command and the Congo Army, Mobutu committed to seek reconciliation between Kasavubu and Lumumba. Projected roundtable conference of Congo political leaders will provide Lumumba with new opportunity to seize initiative.

25X1

C. Lumumba, meanwhile, enjoys active support of UAE, Ghana, Guinea, and to a certain extent of Morocco.

25X1

D. Mobutu's release of Gisenya on 24 September--at behest of Moroccan General Kettani--shows vacillation of Mobutu regime.

E. Army--Mobutu's main prop--reactive over government's failure to meet payrolls, and the discrepancy between its pay scale and that of UN contingents.

II. Rumors of a possible Lumumba counter-coup against Mobutu are rife in Leopoldville, although scheduled roundtable conference may serve as brake on precipitous action.

25X1

- A. On 25 September, Lumumba embarked on speaking tour of Leopoldville while under "protection" of Ghanaian troops. After Mobutu's vigorous protest, UN agreed to move Ghanaian contingent outside city, but has reversed decision after Nkrumah strongly protested.
- B. Lumumba followers, including leftist Vice Premier Gisenga, have ordered campaign of terrorization of officials of Mobutu's government.
  - 1. On 26 September, pro-Lumumba demonstrators--on instructions of Gisenga--beat up two officials of Mobutu's cabinet.
- C. [redacted] Lumumba and Gisenga making preparations to transfer capital to Stanleyville.
  - 1. Gisenga had document instructing that troops be told Mobutu trying to bring back Belgians, and urging parliament members to so inform their constituents.
  - 2. Parliament members should then assemble in Stanleyville.
- D. Pro-Lumumba governor of Leopoldville Province told press conference yesterday that "Civil war might break out in Leopoldville within a week."

III. Elsewhere, UN's report on Congo economy is not encouraging.

- A. Dayal's initial progress report warns of smallpox and plague threats, and states that fewer than 50 of the Congo's 400 hospitals have doctors.
- B. Report adds that so many farms have been abandoned in Congo that UN command has "no accurate count."
- C. It states that intertribal fighting in Kasai Province has left about 250,000 refugees.
